About ABN AMRO

ABN AMRO Bank N.V. is a Dutch state-owned bank with headquarters in Amsterdam. It was re-established, in its current form, in 2009 following the acquisition and break up of ABN AMRO Group by a banking consortium consisting of Royal Bank of Scotland Group, Santander and Fortis. Following the collapse of Fortis, the acquirer of the Dutch business, it was nationalized by the Dutch government along with Fortis Bank Nederland. The Dutch government has said it would remain state owned at least until 2014 after which it would consider a public stock market listing for the new bank.

Ownership

not listed on stock exchange

ABN AMRO Bank is owned by the Dutch State.

In October 2008, the Dutch State acquired Fortis Bank Nederland N.V., the business units ABN AMRO Netherlands and ABN AMRO Private Banking as well as the International Diamond & Jewelry Group (an ABN AMRO entity).

On April 1, 2010, Fortis Bank Nederland and ABN AMRO's businesses (ABN AMRO Bank) were transferred to ABN AMRO Group N.V. Consequently, the memberships of the Supervisory Boards and Managing Boards of ABN AMRO Group, ABN AMRO Bank and Fortis Bank Nederland were the same.

On July 1, 2010, the legal merger of ABN AMRO Bank and Fortis Bank Nederland became effective and the operations of both banks have continued under the name ABN AMRO Bank.
