About Dexia

Dexia is a Belgian-French financial institution, also referred to as the Dexia Group. It was founded in 1996 through the merger of Crédit Communal de Belgique/Gemeentekrediet van België (founded 1860) and Crédit Local de France (founded 1987). The Dexia Group was founded as a dual-listed company, but in 1999 the Belgian entity took over the French entity to form one company.

The company is headquartered in Brussels, Belgium and is engaged in a variety of activities, including: retail and commercial banking; asset management; and publishing research on topics such as welfare, macro-economic studies, and on local government. In 2008 Dexia received a bailout totaling 6 billion Euros and as of 2011 there are plans to reorganize and partly nationalize the bank due to its financial troubles.
